

APAG CoSyst Electronic Control Systems

"WHISTLEBLOWING"

Introduction

APAG CoSyst Electronic Control Systems (hereinafter the "Company") is committed to the highest standards of openness, integrity and accountability.

An important aspect of accountability and transparency is a mechanism that enable staff and other members of the Company to voice their concerns in a responsible and effective manner. It is a fundamental term of every contract of employment that an employee will work for the benefit of his or her employer and will not disclose confidential information about the employer's affairs. Nevertheless, where an individual discovers information which they believe indicates serious malpractice or wrongdoing within the organisation, then this information should be disclosed internally without fear of reprisal and there should be measures in place to enable this independently of the line management.

The Company has endorsed the provisions below to ensure that no members of staff should feel at a disadvantaged in raising legitimate concerns.

It should be emphasised that the aim of this policy is to assist individuals who believe that they have discovered malpractice or impropriety. It is not designed to question financial, or business decisions taken by the Company, nor should it be used to reconsider any matters that have already been addressed under the context of harassment, complaints, disciplinary or other procedures. Once the 'whistleblowing' procedure is in place, it is reasonable to expect staff to use it, rather than air their complaints outside the Company.

Evaluation of the effectiveness of this procedure is done at least once every 12 months and on adhoc basis.
